

On Being a Writer

“A genial marriage of practice and theory. For writers new and seasoned. This book is a winner.”

—Philip Gulley, author Front Porch Tales

Sage, Surprising, Endlessly Useful!

This book essentially asks, “Is your writing life all it can be?”

Then it goes on to act as a personal coach, to explore the writing life the reader already has and the writing life the reader wishes for—working wisely and strategically to help close the gap between the two.

Readers will gain insights through enlightening stories from the authors’ established writing careers. They’ll explore twelve simple (but vital) habits—through journaling, writing prompts, bonus activities, and discussion questions.

Honest and witty stories help build the vision for a satisfying, sustainable writing life, while prompts and activities on the twelve vital habits assist in making that life a reality.

Also includes extra resources like “tools for the writing life,” “recommended reading,” “Artist Dates,” “resources for writing a book proposal,” and “resources for launching a writers group.”

Audience • Writers new and experienced, who value sustainable living and a holistic approach to career and life. Groups or teachers needing material to guide writers into a solid, sane approach to a true “writing life.”

Charity Singleton Craig is an editor for The High Calling, a contributing writer for Tweetspeak Poetry, and a staff writer for The Curator. She also serves the communication needs of various corporate clients.

Ann Kroeker is a popular writing coach, speaker, and the author of two books, including Not So Fast. She also serves as an editor for Tweetspeak Poetry and The High Calling.
